

English parish churches have been for centuries outstanding features of town and country, both as beautiful buildings and as repositories of fine furnishings and internal features. Leicestershire and Rutland are fortunate in having many historic churches falling into each of these categories.

The first part of this book traces the history of the parish churches of the two counties, and the second part forms a gazetteer, summarising the architectural features and contents of over 60 of the most important.

Professor Leonard Cantor is Emeritus Professor of Education at Loughborough University and is a leading authority on the history of the English landscape. He is author of a companion volume, The Historic Country Houses of Leicestershire and Rutland, and the co-author of another, The Historic Parks and Gardens of Leicestershire and Rutland.
