ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

A great many people have contributed in various different ways to this book. If there is anyone I have forgotten, I am truly sorry. The names are listed in no particular order, but I must make special mention of Lucile Thompson who, at the very outset, undertook to photograph all the old buildings. Because of changes over the last few years, some have had to be retaken, but many are shown here, and all of them were available for me to peruse during the preparation of this book. I also went flying down the road, from time to time, to consult Kitty Brown who, having been born in the village in 1906, could often sort out some of my confusion.
